A Welcome Party was held last Tuesday at the Fowlerville High School Media Center for a group of German students and their teachers who are staying here for two weeks as part of a Partnership Exchange program. They are pairing with a host student from either the high school or junior high to attend classes and are staying with Fowlerville families. The host students will then travel to Haan, Germany in June and stay with the students they hosted. Beside the 'Welcome to Fowlerville' cake were, from left Nathan Szilagyi, Anja Ott, Niclas Thome, and Fiona Paulussen.

Fowlerville is in the midst of hosting 19 students and two teachers from Haan, Germany as part of a Partnership Exchange program. Haan is located near Dusseldorf in the western part of that nation.

Jade Huffman, the German language teacher at Fowlerville Community Schools, who is helping with the program, noted that the group would be visiting Fowlerville High School and the Junior High for two weeks and staying with local families.

Hive Youth & Teen Center holding Walkathon Fundraiser on Dec. 2nd

The kids at the Hive Youth & Teen Center are making it their mission to raise $20,000 for The Hive Youth & Teen Center and they're kicking everything off with our first-ever Walkathon Fundraiser on December 2nd at the Oceola Community Center. The Hive Teen Center is a place where teens can come to gather with friends, interact with adults on relatively equal footing, gain recognition for their efforts and skills, and make choices about what they will do and how they will do it, all in a place that is teen-driven!

Our teens will be walking all night long to raise funds for the center and we have entertainment and activities planned the entire evening including a StarSlam, a blockbuster wrestling event put on by Combat 1 Wrestling, a "Pros vs. Joes Chili Cook Off", a Super Smash Brothers Tournament and so much more!

The event is open to the public! Community members are invited to attend to help cheer our kids on. If you want to donate to the cause, both one-time and per mile pledges go a long way to helping our teens reach their goal and can be submitted online via the link below.

For more information on the event, registration, or to donate, visit us online at: <https://www.howellrecreation.org/hive-walkathon>

Your Comfort is Our Priority!

Gratitude behind & before us...

By Susan Kretchman

“Gratitude turns what we have into enough, and more. It turns denial into acceptance, chaos into order, confusion into clarity...it makes sense of our past, brings peace for today, and creates a vision for tomorrow.”--Melody Beattie

The month of November holds many special days for me, my own birthday and wedding anniversary which are two weeks apart, our son’s birthday, as well as a son-in-law’s. Along with these “personal” celebrations we add in Veteran’s Day and Thanksgiving Day. Scattered throughout the month are countless special days for others. No matter the significance of each event in November, they are all blanketed under an umbrella of “gratitude”. At least, that’s how November is being marketed to us now...midst football games, turkey dinners, Christmas decorations and advertising crowding out everything else before the turkey has even been put in the oven or deep fryer!

I was thinking about Veteran’s Day which we observed last week and the anticipation of Thanksgiving as we check off each day from our calendar leading up to Nov. 23. My mind drifted back to remembering the devastation that occurred in our country on Sept. 11. We all witnessed a flurry of patriotism. Churches saw an increase in attendance, although now those numbers have dwindled again. Most every coat lapel we saw on a TV personality bore a small American flag pin. Flag emblems now adorn most of the uniforms worn by major sporting teams. Many of us began taking a moment to acknowledge a Veteran or a first responder in our midst by giving a “thank you for your service”... I’ve done so myself and though I fear my words are trite, they remain my best. A sincere “thank you” is ample and satisfies my desire to express appreciation. Veteran’s Day also allows me to remember two favorite family stories....

My dad’s father—my Grandpa Jewell—had an elementary education. He was a hard worker who toiled sun-up to sundown an 80-acre farm. To supplement income he used his skills with an ax to help clear trees on land in Northern Michigan. Gramp and Gramma raised 11 children during the depression and when World War II drew America into the efforts, my dad and four of his brothers all served in various branches of our military. Fast forward to the end of the war, dad and his brothers came home, married and began civilian life in their respective careers. Grandpa got a letter from the government stating he owed back taxes on the farm. Using his elementary age writing skills and sharp retorts, he wrote back....“you’re telling me I owe $?. Well, you took five of my boys to fight in your war. You didn’t ask me if you could have ‘em’...I think I paid enough.” Family lore told us this story and to this day I believe it and I also know (according to family) Grandpa never heard from the government office again.

One of those five boys, my Uncle Lyle, served in the Air Force as a career which spanned World War II, Viet Nam and final duty assignments in Hawaii before retiring to California. On one of their trips back to Michigan, he and my aunt stopped at a small motel for the night. Before going to bed, Lyle went outside for a walk and noticed a beautiful Harley Davison parked for the evening. As he walked a slow circle around the bike, admiring it, he was interrupted and when lifting his head to find where a big voice was coming from, he was quite startled by the size of the person who clearly was the owner of the bike.

In a rather burly angry tone my uncle was greeted with “what do you think you’re doin!”

“I’m admiring your bike”.

By now the guy had seen the cap Lyle was wearing, one of many he owned. This one bore the P-51B Mustang insignia. “I suppose you’re gonna tell me you fought in World War II”.

“Yes”, I did.

“I suppose you’re gonna tell me you rode in one of those planes”.

“Yes, I did. But, I didn’t only ride in the plane, I was the pilot”.

Following a very brief moment of silence...Lyle thought to himself “what have I gotten myself into here. This guy is huge and he’s probably gonna do something that causes pain”.

Their silence was broken with the bike’s owner extending his hand to shake Lyle’s, creating a bridge between a Harley owner and a retired pilot. In their travels, both had seen a lot of beauty and their fair share of tragedies, too, that my imagination can only try to comprehend and yet not embrace in totality. “I just wanna thank ya man. Because of you and your service, I have the freedom to ride my bike wherever I want.”

My dad, my uncles, are all gone from our family now. As I read through the quote I used at the top of this article, focusing on the phrase how *gratitude can make sense of our past... bring peace...create vision for tomorrow...*I’m left with a large measure of assurance how memories and “stories” from my family have helped mold me into the person that I am today.

Last weekend I had the privilege of thanking a very mature Veteran for his service. He, too, was wearing a cap that proudly bore the insignia for his military branch. Those caps remind these ole guys—and women—of a past filled with heartache and triumph. They are worn very proudly and when I see someone wearing one, I seldom hesitate to take a moment to say “thank you”.

As we approach Thanksgiving Day there will be a lot of preparation for a big meal. Maybe there will be travel arrangements, plans to relax in front of TVs to watch the “big game” or indulge in silly movies. How we celebrate this day is by personal choice. My only hope is that more of us will truly pause...allow silence to fall on our tables like a soft rain...and from hearts of humility and gratitude utter a sincere “thank you”...not to nature, not to the universe, not to luck...but to the One Who gives only good gifts from above. If you’ve never prayed before, here’s a little help from our country’s history, a prayer credited to the Pilgrims in the early 1600’s.

“O Lord our God and heavenly Father, which of Thy unspeakable mercy towards us, hast provided meate and drinke for the nourishment of our weake bodies. Grant us peace to use them reverently, as from Thy hands, with thankful hearts: let Thy blessing rest upon these Thy good creatures, to our comfort and sustentation: and grant we humbly beseech Thee, good Lord, that as we doe hunger and thirst for this food of our bodies, so our soules may earnestly long after the food of eternal life, through Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour, Amen”

Is Identity a True Answer to Materialism?

Western culture, especially the kind found in the U.S., is criticized for being overrun with materialism and consumerism. This implies our culture is lacking in contrasting principles, usually identified as idealism or individualism. Materialism, so the argument goes, creates a greedy, exploitative system that prioritizes personal gain over moral good and places attention on outward consumption rather than self-development. Is this a fair characterization of the problem, and are proposed solutions valid?

Before evaluating, we should set some common definitions.

In this context, I define materialism as an excessive desire for the acquisition and possession of things. What constitutes excessive is mostly in the eye of the beholder, but generally speaking, I think we can agree that someone who sacrifices other values in the pursuit of wealth or possessions crosses the line into materialism.

Consumerism is a similar concept, but I define it as an excessive desire for the consumption of goods or services, whether entertainment, social media, news, or even food or drink. In our minds, I think we often connect consumerism with advertising and shopping because most companies seek to feed the consumers' desires for their particular goods or services. In this way, consumerism often leads to materialism, while materialism is sometimes the driving energy for consumerism.

Both are an attempt to achieve happiness and self-worth, but neither provides true fulfillment. In the end, we find disappointment and a gaping hole of purposelessness. That is not to say possessions are wrong or that we should pursue minimalism, but we should make certain our priorities are well placed.

More people are realizing that materialism is not fulfilling, so they are searching for something else. Unfortunately, corporations and culture were quick with an alternative: self-absorption. There has been a shift in messaging from blatant and people-oriented. That would be a true change in culture, and one I believe would be much for the better.

This is not at all a call for self-mortification. But it is a call to live for something greater than ourselves. As we approach Thanksgiving, Christmas, and a new year, there is no better time to ponder and start to apply this purpose of greater living.

What's so funny 'bout Peace, Love and Understanding?

By Jace Arledge

Where were you and what were you listening to in 1979? Was it the Knack, REO Speedwagon, Donna Summer, Rod Stewart? I can seriously admit, I listened to all the above bands and liked many of their songs. However, there is one song that a young 13-year-old found meaningful, emotional and one of the catalysts to the future me.

The song (What's so funny 'Bout) Peace, Love and Understanding written by Nick Lowe (Cruel to Be Kind and I knew the Bride when she used to rock and roll) and performed by Elvis Costello and the Associates, released in 1979.

I'll never forget the beat and the guitars and then Elvis first line:

*As I walk through this wicked world
Searchin' for light in the darkness of insanity
I ask myself, "Is all hope lost?
Is there only pain and hatred and misery?"*

So many uneasy events during this time from a school shooting because the shooter "didn't like Mondays", Greensboro Massacre, Iran hostage crisis, the ongoing energy crisis, and cold war. Yet at 13, I'm sure I was kept oblivious from these things because it wasn't something that "kids" should have to worry about, unlike today where kids are many times included in ADULT conversations, but that isn't what this writing is about....

On many social media accounts one can find such vitriol spoken about others just for being different, whether it be how one identifies, where they are from, how they worship or don't, any way they are different, someone finds a reason to name call or belittle. Why? Where does it get you? It seems the more vocal someone is about an issue, the more traction it makes. Like a snowball headed for hell.

I can tell you that I have been called some nasty things on social media, just for who I am, and as much as I try to push it behind me, it hurts. These accusations are from some who look me in the eye and speak friendly but then behind closed doors or on private pages speak another way. I've never understood that sort of behavior, and I don't think I ever will.

So with this coming holiday season, try to learn something new about someone. Even if you don't think you have anything in common, step out of your comfort zone, reach out your hand and heart and get to know them before passing judgement and stereotyping. Be strong, be an advocate, be an ally and speak for those who are too afraid or just can't find the words.

Then take a listen to Elvis Costello sing this song...

*And as I walk on through troubled times
My spirit gets so downhearted sometimes
So where are the strong, and who are the trusted?
And where is the harmony, sweet harmony?*

'Cause each time I feel it slippin' away, just makes me wanna cry

*What's so funny 'bout peace, love and understanding? Oh-oh
What's so funny 'bout peace, love and understanding?*

Stay kind and LOVE unconditionally!

Til Next Time...

Varsity Football

Brayden Packer - Brayden recently completed his sophomore football season with the Varsity Football Program. Brayden's intensity and knowledge of the game earned him a lot of time on the field this season. He finished as the team's second leading tackler and as a key contributor on the offensive line. Brayden is a 3 sport athlete and has a bright future in Purple and Gold.

Jake Esch - Jake finished his career with the Gladiators as an All-League selection this season. He made 37 tackles this year while playing 4 different defensive positions. Jake also anchored the offensive line and filled in as the team's long snapper when needed. He is another 3 sport athlete and a fine example of what it means to be a Gladiator.

Smith Elementary hosted special activity for recent Veterans Day

By Sara Parkinson

H.T. Smith Elementary recently hosted a special activity for Veterans Day which gave young students a better understanding of our armed forces and veterans.

Smith Elementary, which includes students ages kindergarten through grade two, encouraged veterans and active service military members in the community to participate in this special activity by creating videos which would help students gain a deeper understanding of the sacrifices and dedication of our military personnel.

“We believe that engaging our students in a personal and interactive manner is the most effective way to instill respect and understanding for our veterans,” said Andrea Hart, a teacher at Smith Elementary. “By having veterans create videos and share their own stories, we could bring a real-world perspective to our classroom.”

Smith Elementary Principal, Kathy Gibson also expressed enthusiasm for this unique project, adding that “Education is not limited to textbooks; it extends to experiences that help students grow into well-rounded individuals. We are thankful to our veterans and active service members for their service, and we are grateful to them for sharing their wisdom with our students.”

Veterans and active service military members who participated were encouraged to create videos that answered questions about their service.

Participants were invited to answer questions like:

--What does your branch of the military do? Do you have any special awards or recognitions?

--What made you decide to join the service?

--What is/was your favorite part about being in the service?

--What do you do now?

--How did you communicate with your friends and family if/when you were away?

Additionally, on Friday, November 10, the building observed a “silent dismissal” which included playing the ‘Star-Spangled Banner’ over the P.A. system. Those family members and friends of our students who are veterans or active service members were invited to visit the school during this event as well.

Fowlerville Community Schools and Smith Elementary are dedicated to providing a platform for veterans and active service members to connect with the younger generation, fostering a sense of community and appreciation for the sacrifices made by those who serve our country.

This information can be found on Fowlerville High School Webpage under the Counseling Department.

Fowlerville Community Schools, in a joint effort with all Livingston County schools, would like to invite all families to our first monthly mental health series for parents. Each month, every school in Livingston County will host the same parent meeting designed by the Cook Center at 6:30 pm.

The series will cover several topics that parents and children are battling. Topics include:

- Dec 14 @ 6:00 pm - School avoidance
- Jan 11 @ 6:30 pm - Effects of screen time
- Feb 8 @ 6:30 pm - Building your child’s confidence.
- March 14 @ 6:30 pm - Bullying
- April 11 @ 6:30 pm - Substance abuse and vaping

In each meeting, parents will learn simple strategies to help you respond to your child when they are facing these challenges or learn more about each one if it is ever needed. The cost is completely free to all families and is a valuable resource.

There are two options for attending the parent meetings. You can attend in person at our High School Media Center or virtually via the links provided in the attachments. We know your lives are busy, but we hope that you may be able to find the time to attend this informational series. Attending in person will allow you to connect with other families as we all navigate raising confident and healthy children.

Please contact Amanda Robertson, our mental health specialist, with any questions you may have at robertsona@fowlervilleschools.org. We hope to see you all there!

Band jackets donated to Fowlerville District Library Historical Collection

By Marion Cornett

Volunteer for Historical Collection

The Fowlerville Library Historical Collection has received a donation from the Fowlerville Fairgrounds Historical Village Committee—two Fowlerville band jackets and a military-style hat, c. 1880s, found in the Kirkland House located in the historical village.

Fowlerville, as with many small towns, had a “cornet band” at one time. Fowlerville’s, as evidenced by pictures and the donated hat, was called the Fowlerville Curtis Band. According to some research, many of these bands formed in the late 1800s to help bring community members together after the Civil War. Some notable names included G.L. Adams (publisher and editor of the local newspaper), Morgan Vaughn (barber), Clyde Converse (farmer), and Orla Miner (of the Miner family, grocers).

The display is currently located in the alcove at the back of the library, along with the glass-front case showing a replicated Civil War uniform donated by Janet Eldridge. Note: As the jackets and cap were donated but not with pants, we are making use of military slacks from a previous display.

While speaking with members of the historical village from the fairgrounds, they expressed how the Kirkland House is being taken back to how it may have looked in the late 1800s and early 1900s, containing items pertinent to the Fowlerville area. The band jackets and hat—yes, pertinent to this area—were found in an old trunk in the house and truly needed to be on display. The Fowlerville District Library had the items dry cleaned and freshened up. And now, they are for all to see. The fabric is fragile—as most older items tend to become—so, please look but do not touch.

Thank you, Rick Kastner, Matt Dickinson, and Janie Willmore for this special donation.

As a side note, the Fowlerville Library Historical Collection is a sight to see. A visitor can explore artifacts from days-gone-by to articles recounting a rich history to looking through yearbooks to some family genealogy and photographs (although a more comprehensive research tool is Ancestry available on the library computers). I have made myself available to help with research on Wednesdays from 10 am to noon. As my schedule now permits, I will be at the historical collection the last Wednesday of November and all of the Wednesdays in December. If you are unable to attend on Wednesday, feel free to leave a written note with the circulation staff at the front of the building with your question, your name and contact information, and I will research in order to answer your question as best as I can.

The students and their two teachers visiting from Haan, Germany are Tobias Ruhle, Chiara Jacob, Olivia Tesla, Linn Vielgraf, Lara Leupold, Sina Felder, Lina Schüller, Emma Cambuzzi, Hannah Petschak, Sebastian Jung, Dany Braun, Neo Metz, Niclas Thome, Ben Buschhausen, Christopher Bek, and Davina Czekalla.

and attend classes,” she said. “These Fowlerville students will then travel to Germany in June and stay with the students they hosted.”

The visitors are from Gesamtschule Haan and the school has been involved in this Partnership Exchange for around 30 years, pairing with schools in different parts of the United States.

All of the visiting youth are 15 years old, while the local host students range from junior high to high school seniors.

The German students and their teachers arrived this past Monday and the following morning attended a Welcome Party at the high school media center. The event was hosted by the high school Leadership Class, which is taught by Lorrie Osborne.

There was a power-point presentation of Michigan Facts and then Fowlerville Facts. The former noted that the state is shaped like a mitten and is surrounded by four of the five Great Lakes. The latter offered that the school mascot is the Gladiators and there are 13 different sports offered.

This was followed by the Name Game in which the visiting student and their host student came up with a word that best described their respective personalities, with the catch that it had to start with the same letter as their first name. English examples were Enthusiastic Emily and Friendly Freddie.

“This is a way for you to learn about each other,” Osborne said.

Everyone was then treated to sandwiches, chips and pop—with most of the ingredients Michigan-made.

The visitors also had two sightseeing trips planned during their stay in Fowlerville. Last Wednesday they toured the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn and on Friday planned a trip to Michigan State University.

Attending the Welcome Party were, from left, Derek Drouillard of Fowlerville, Hannah Petschack of Germany, Aubrey Loomis of Fowlerville, Addison Ellers of Fowlerville and Lina-Giselle Schuller of Germany.

Charles Albert Rhodes, 77 of Webberville, Michigan, passed away on November 14, 2023.

Charles, fondly known as Chuck, was born to Harry and Elizabeth Rhodes on June 2, 1946 in Coldwater, Michigan. He was a devoted husband, loving father and grandfather who would go out of his way to help others. Chuck graduated from high school in Webberville, Michigan and enlisted in the Navy shortly after. During this time he met his loving wife of 53 years, whom he proposed to the first time he met her. They were later married while he was stationed in Puerto Rico and started a family after returning home. Chuck worked at Michigan State University as a PipeFitter/Welder and retired after 30 years of service.

Chuck is survived by his wife Marie and three sons Chuck, Tony (Danielle), Jason (Melissa) and grandchildren Hunter, Gage, Dylan, Kole and Isabella. He is also survived by his sister Marry Raymond and brothers Harry, John and Mike.

Chuck was known for loving the outdoors. He spent most of his time during the summer at his cottage in Traverse City, Michigan where he enjoyed friends, family and fishing. When fall would come around he would begin prepping for hunting and trapping seasons. Both were a passion of his and he passed that passion down to his children. In the winter he would enjoy cutting wood to heat his home, ice fishing and watching the grandkids play basketball, but what he loved most of all was being able to help someone that needed it. If he had something that he thought would make your life better, he would give it to you, whether it was a tool, his labor, knowledge or his love he would give it and needed nothing in return. So please help us celebrate the beautiful and blessed life of Chuck Rhodes.

The Rhodes Family hosted a funeral service on Friday, November 17th, 2023 at the Herrmann Funeral Home in Fowlerville. Viewing was 10:00AM- 12:00PM. Service began at 12:00 PM. Burial followed at Bell Oak Cemetery. Online condolences may be expressed at pjherrmannfuneralhome.com

Norma Sorensen of Fowlerville passed away peacefully at Brookdale Meridian Assisted Living in Haslett on November 13, 2023. Norma, the oldest of eleven children, was born in Detroit on April 30, 1927, to Benjamin and Florence Olrich. The family moved to the Howell and Byron area in 1934. Norma graduated from Byron High School and went on to get a Degrees in Home Economics and Teaching from Michigan State University. She married Harry Sorensen of Fowlerville in 1948. Norma and Harry moved to Fowlerville where they built a house on Converse Road in 1954.

Norma began her career as an elementary school teacher for the Fowlerville School System in 1957, teaching a year-and-a-half at the Randall School and later as a fourth and fifth grade teacher in Fowlerville until retiring from full time teaching in 1994. Michigan House Report

By Bob Bezotte,
50th District

The Michigan Legislature adjourned for the year on Tuesday, just a week after Democrats learned they had lost their narrow majority in the House of Representatives due to recent mayoral elections and would soon be faced with a 54-54 bipartisan split. Democrats are also using the maneuver to move up the effective date of several new laws passed through the Legislature along party lines.

This is the first time in more than 50 years that the Legislature has adjourned before December.

As legislators, our commitment to the people goes beyond party lines. It's disappointing that, instead of seizing the opportunity to tackle shared challenges, the Democrat leadership opted to cancel session for the rest of the year.

There are plenty of issues that we can work on together that would benefit Michigan in a positive way, including a bipartisan school safety plan that I co-sponsored. House Bills 4088-4100 were put together based on recommendations from a bipartisan task force that took a close look at school safety following the horrific shooting at Oxford High School. The bills were introduced in February and have been sitting, waiting for a hearing for months.

In an attempt to keep legislators in the capital doing their jobs until the end of the year, House Republicans introduced House Concurrent Resolution 9, which would keep the Legislature in session until Monday, Dec. 28. I also co-sponsored House Joint Resolution J to guarantee that if the Legislature does adjourn early, elected officials would not be paid a full-time salary for the remainder of the year.

Unfortunately, the Democrat leadership sent both measures to the House Government Operations Committee, a panel widely known for shelving legislation that a majority caucus has no intention of advancing.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to reach out to my office by calling (517) 373-3906 or emailing RobertBezotte@house.mi.gov. I am always happy to hear from people in our community.

Turkeys roaming on the Cook Family Farm in Gaylord.

Local farms compete with imported turkeys during Thanksgiving

By Kelsey Lester
Capital News Service

When you reminisce about the Thanksgiving season, it's easy to envision a belly stuffed with turkey, then leaning all the way back in your favorite recliner for a nap.

The hard work of small-town turkey farmers around Michigan is likely to go unnoticed when many consumers head to the supermarket for their frozen bird, but family farms are promoting happier and healthier turkeys.

Waneta Cook from the Cook Family Farm in Gaylord is one such advocate.

With 11 children, most of whom are married, — and over 350 turkeys — the Cook family all comes home to handle processing on the farm with delicacy and seriousness, she said.

"For the most part, all of our turkeys are picked up by families who are going to be putting them on their table, so buying local for us is extremely critical to the success of our season," Cook said.

"Our farming is a lot of hard work, but it's also very rewarding when you know you're able to provide a product that is very difficult to find," she said.

According to the Cook Family Farm, each turkey chick is treated with care and a healthy diet.

"For somebody who is concerned about how the turkeys have been raised and what they've been eating, you aren't going to know that if buying from a grocery store," she said. "The best thing you can do is find a local farm."

What about dining on wild turkey this Nov. 23?

That's unlikely.

"Turkey hunting and Thanksgiving don't have a very tight connection in Michigan," said Department of Natural Resources game bird specialist Adam Bump.

The state's wild turkey population is "one of wildlife's conservation success stories," Bump said.

"They were eliminated — extirpated is what we would call it (in the 1900s). In Michigan, we've restored that, and now populations are booming," he said. "We can have healthy populations and hunting opportunities all together."

There are now around 200,000 of them.

"For fall turkey hunting, you might get a few people that decide they're going to go out and try to harvest a turkey for Thanksgiving, but I think the majority of our fall turkeys are taken by deer hunters," Bump said.

According to Michigan Allied Poultry Industries, based in East Lansing, consumption of domestic turkeys has increased over 104% since 1970. An average of 5.3 million turkeys are produced annually in the state, 70% of them raised in Ottawa County.

Most frozen turkeys in supermarkets come from Minnesota.

Cook said she prefers eating domestic turkeys over wild ones. "We have tasted wild turkey, but we are able to control exactly what their diet is (on the farm). If they're in the wild, you don't have any idea what they are eating."

Maxbauer's Meat Market in Traverse City is another small-town business that pushes for shopping locally.

It expects to sell over 600 turkeys this year, said Sean Torres, the main manager.

"Everything we make here is homemade, all from scratch. You can get your whole Thanksgiving turkey meal here. Our turkeys are all natural, never been frozen, and fresh," he said. "I don't even get them until the week of the holiday."

Letter to the Editor

In response to Mr. Jenkin’s letter of November 12th, I guess if you cannot debate or discuss issues in a civil manner, the next step is attack and disparage. I have elicited this same response for friends who are retired unionized teachers and from a close relative, a graduate of a small liberal arts college and a large State of Michigan university, unfortunately.

I stand by my statements in my November 5th letter. I cannot remember where I read the following statement, but I am trying to locate my source:

“Not all Socialists are Nazis, but all Nazis are Socialist.”

After the end of World War II, many Nazis were trying to distance themselves from the Nazi Party and Socialism.

I grew up during the patriotic days of World War II. Though I spent my career in health care, I always had a strong interest in history and politics.

I am very concerned for the future of this country. I remember vividly the protests of the 1960’s, the high point of which occurred outside the Democratic Convention in 1968 where the protesters learned that they couldn’t divide the country along class (economic) lines.

My husband went to work every morning to run a plant that produced ammunition for the military. It was guarded by the National Guard with machine guns. The shootings of students at Kent State ended the protests.

Bill Ayres (Obama’s friend and neighbor) who was a member of the Weathermen and/or Students for a Democratic Society (started by Tom Hayden at U of M) and his buddies who were mostly the children of affluent whites, dove into the universities as professors.

So 50 years later, we have all the radical students coming out of our universities and indoctrinating our primary and secondary students. We have a lot to be concerned about in this country.

Keep in mind that Hitler, Stalin, Mao, the Kims of North Korea, Castro, and Pol Pot of Cambodia slaughtered a conservative 100+ million of their citizens—all Socialist countries.

President Trump has killed no one, and he never trumped up charges to try to put his political adversaries in jail. I thought that only happened in Russia under Stalin and Putin.

If Democrats win the 2024 Presidential election, I’m sure there will be no indictments of the Biden family despite receiving all the millions of dollars (traced in the House of Representatives investigation).

Americans need to be aware that many changes in our country indicate decline, such as we are a debtor nation, in severe debt, our education system is failing, our history is being rewritten (the ‘New York Times’ 1619 Project), and our national monuments are being removed and destroyed. Racism is a constant subject since the election of President Obama. I’m afraid all this may indicate a slide into Socialism (as in Russia, China, Cuba, et al).

Sincerely,

Nancy M. Manson
Howell

Letter to the Editor

I would like to thank Amanda Bonnville and Joe Parker of the Iosco Township Board for their time, resources, and information on the Special Assessment District that’s being proposed. It seems some of the people who signed the paperwork requesting this were misled by claims that, without major improvements to the private roads where we live, emergency vehicles would not have access and mail delivery and trash pick-up would need to be done at the end of Cedar Road at Elliot Road.

It seems there are three or four people who want to assess homeowners and property owners within this proposed district, saying $100 for summer tax and $100 for winter tax, but also that the extra charge is subject to change. If you cannot afford the extra property tax, you have to apply through the state where they put a lien on on your home or property. On top of that, they want to form a Homeowners

Woman’s Advance Club learns about area newspaper at November meeting

The Woman’s Advance Club held its November meeting at the Webberville United Methodist Church last Monday. Nancy Webb, the club president, called the meeting to order and introduced our program speaker, Dawn Horton, the Assistant Publisher of the ‘Fowlerville News & Views’. Mrs. Horton was a Hastings resident at the time of marrying her husband (Stephen), the Publisher. We enjoyed learning how “our” paper still has roots there as she reviewed the history of the weekly newspaper.

How wonderful was the article her husband, Stephen, wrote prior to their marriage that she read. After nearly 39 years of marriage, they are certainly a team that serves our communities. Dawn is an active member of Rotary and the Downtown Development Authority in Fowlerville. After many additions and changes over time, she noted that the current circulation is over 6,000 copies weekly, including delivery to key locations, individuals and via US mail!

Motions passed to accept the mailed minutes and treasurer’s report. Selected purchased books have been delivered to the Webberville Elementary School Library. Motion passed for funds to deliver Operation Christmas Cheer cards that are signed and will be delivered to the nursing homes etc. in our area by the Journalism class of Webberville High School. The Club donated 906 cards for this wonderful school class project.

Nancy read a lovely poem about Thanksgiving with a color wheel to illustrate the colors of our Country’s Thanksgiving. Phyllis Webster gave brief information about how she and her husband (Art) were both direct descents of our arriving new Americans on the Mayflower and a ship that followed, Fortune.

The meeting closed with wonderful treats provided by Cathy Ward.

Association, which is called the Cedar River Road Group.

They also said that when the road is brought up to specs, maybe the Livingston County Road Commission will take it over. Hogwash. As Mrs. Bonnville said, there is no way the County Road Commission is taking on private roads.

My request to these few people is that you should stop wasting the township board’s time and resources. When you moved out here, you knew what you were moving into.

We don’t need private-road government.

On another matter, to Mr. Steve Jenkins on his Nov. 12th Letter to the Editor in the ‘News & Views’, keep up the good work! I enjoy your views.

Webberville art students learn how to complete clay vases with raku firing

By Isabella Crampton

Art students in Mr. Wilson's Webberville High School sculpture class spent many days building vases out of ceramic clay. Once they were comfortable with their skills, they traveled to Mr. Wilson's house on a field trip to learn how to raku fire their pieces.

Raku firing is when glazed ceramics are taken from a 2,000 degree kiln while they are still glowing and red hot, then placed in materials such as sawdust or straw to catch fire. The glazing will look very different on each piece, depending on how the fire burns.

Students spent the day helping their teacher load and unload the kiln with their vases, while learning how firing works. All of the sculptures survived the 2,000-degree firing and came out in ideal shape.

The students were given time to enjoy their surroundings and connect with nature, as well.

"My favorite part of the field trip was taking a walk in Mr. Wilson's yard when we had down time. It was so pretty, and I loved how welcomed we all were. It was such a cool experience," said senior Daisy Fuller.

They also enjoyed making homemade pizzas with Mrs. Wilson and were thankful for her warm hospitality.

Before leaving, the students were given handmade mementos made by Ron Frenzen, Mr. Wilson's Mentor at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp. The field trip was definitely a thrilling experience for everyone.

Webberville Cross Country seniors finish their season at regionals

By Levi Howard

For the three lone seniors on the Webberville Varsity Cross Country Team, their season came to an end on October 27th at the regional race at Happy Acres.

Madeline Derian, Brenna Williams, and Kaleb Iler were all first-year runners and were sad to say their goodbyes. The team recognized their seniors for their positivity, commitment and leadership throughout the season.

"My favorite part about the cross-country season was bonding with all of my teammates, and growing mentally throughout the season," said Madeline. "I chose to do it my senior year to try something new and I really enjoyed it."

Brenna said that there were many reasons she decided to join this year. "I ran Cross Country to improve friendships, as well as my running skills. I wanted to challenge myself this senior year and I learned to love running."

Kaleb Iler

When asked about his teammate Kaleb, freshman Eli Gillespie said, "We could count on Kaleb to show up at practice to put in the work and the effort. He never quit and was always a persistent runner on our team. He was always there to cheer everyone on and push us to be better."

Webberville Middle School Student Council sponsored a Spooktacular Dance

In collaboration with Victoria Taylor & Netalia Ritz
On October 27th, the Webberville Middle School Student Council sponsored a spooky Halloween dance. As it was the first Halloween dance in many years, the student council spent weeks planning the event.

Dance duties were assigned to various students and on the day-of, the team came together to bring the Halloween theme to life with ghostly decorations and lights. A graveyard scene was on display near the dance floor to promote the creepy atmosphere of Halloween. Families contributed snacks, desserts and drinks, while student council provided pizza for the main course.

Brett Newsom with Newsom Tunes generously donated his equipment and skills as DJ for the evening. As eerie and fun dance music played in the cafeteria, the middle school gym was open for students to play games and enjoy themselves. Overall, it was a very fun night for all the middle school students to enjoy.

Livingston County Comments

By: Doug Helzerman, District 1 Commissioner

The Livingston County Board, last Monday, authorized LETS to purchase two medium-duty buses to replace older ones. To get the best price possible, we use the State of Michigan Transit Vehicle Cooperative Purchasing Program. The estimated cost for both is $414,830. These buses have a useful life of seven years or 200,000 miles. We are committed to maintaining this excellent service for our county with the funds that are available. Publicly funded transportation in a rural setting, however, will never match the level of service that is possible in cities where demand is higher and riders’ fares can better supplement the cost. The vision of LETS is in its name--- “Livingston Essential Transportation Services.”

We also approved an increase in our fleet count for our 911 dispatch team from two to three. This is needed due to an increase in out-of-county staff training and regional meetings. It will also ensure operational readiness in the event of communication outages and other emergencies. We will be retaining a 2017 Ford Explorer that was scheduled to be sold at auction in 2024. The move will increase the county outlay by only an estimated $3600, the annual cost for fuel, maintenance and insurance.

In a surprise move, the county was able to re-hire Nathan Burd as County Administrator. Mr. Burd was appointed by the Livingston County Board of Commissioners and served in the position of County Administrator since 2020. Nathan had tendered his resignation which was effective September 1, 2023.

We assigned a team to seek a replacement and were at the point of setting up interviews for five finalists, three of which are current Livingston employees. Before the interview process began, Nathan reached out to Livingston County regarding the possibility of returning to his former position. Each board member individually was favorable. Nathan asked that he have confidentiality until his resignation at his present position was official. Monday night we took action to suspend the search process and make a conditional offer of appointment for the position of County Administrator to him for a period expiring in July, 2026. Though he was an employee in good standing when he left, it is standard practice do a new background check and fill out new paperwork for any returning employee. He plans to be back on the job by late December or early January.

I hope that each of you has a good Thanksgiving time with family and friends. The giving of thanks is important to a properly functioning society. Every aspect of our lives depends on the actions of other people. It is only courteous to acknowledge with a simple “thank you” the contribution of a parent or child, an employer or an employee, a friend, a neighbor, a kind stranger etc.

For those who believe in the Creator it is easy for us to give thanks to the One who gives us life and sustains us so richly in such a marvelously intricate world. We can be thankful for our country that has to this point given Americans a level of freedom and prosperity unrivaled in history. To where else in the world do millions of uninvited people flock, even when it is not legal? I hope you can join me in thanking God for all of the blessings He has given to us.

On Nov. 4th and 5th the Webberville High School National Honor Society and student council members assisted the community by raking leaves for several residents. Students served through the Faith in Action program and the local Webberville Calvary Church.

When asked about her experience, sophomore Ella Howard says, "I really enjoyed raking leaves and helping out my community. It was a lot of fun to spend time with my classmates while helping others around me!"

First graders march as they sing the 'Armed Forces Medley'

Students offer their artwork to the veterans.

Webberville Elementary celebrates local veterans at special assembly

Always a favorite tradition, the Veteran's Day Assembly was held at Webberville Elementary on Friday, November 10th. Seventeen veterans from the community were honored in person. They were presented with handmade student artwork, songs, poems and a slideshow. Each grade level learned a part in the "Armed Forces Medley," led by K-12 Music/Drama teacher Kara Tredway. Following a moment of silence, TAPS was performed on trumpet by Webberville Junior Dakota Beverly. Thank you, veterans, for your service and dedication to our country!

Recess, Temperatures & Proper Clothing – We believe recesses are an important part of the total school curriculum; all students are expected to go outside to get some physical exercise. With our fall temperatures dropping significantly and rain in the forecast almost daily lately, please make sure your child brings warm outer wear, such as mittens, hats and coats. Please Note * A very helpful plan is to keep an extra set of clothing in your child's backpack at all times, just in case they get their clothes wet while outside or have an accident at school.

Medication –If your child requires any prescription or non-prescription medication during the school year, a parent or guardian must bring the medication in to the Smith Office to drop it off and complete the necessary paperwork. School Board Policy states that children are not allowed to transport medication.

FYI- Each school building in the Fowlerville Community School District has a Child Study Team / Response to Intervention process in place, which is a vehicle for staff members to review student performance, concerns, and collaboratively develop interventions. If you have concerns about your child's development and are interested in more information on special services, contact his/her building Principal.
